SFCC levy falls short

By OWEN HARDY
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Residents of the State Fair Community College district overwhelmingly defeated Tuesday a one-year 60-cent operating levy increase that would have helped finance construction of a proposed vocational-technical building on the college's campus.

The levy, which needed only a simple majority to pass, was defeated by a final vote of 4,242 to 3,226.

Tuesday's outcome marked the fifth time a levy increase or bond issue proposal to raise funds for college expansion has been defeated.

"We're all extremely disappointed," President Fred Davis said. "A lot of people worked very hard for this; they spent a lot of time and money."

"I'm very disappointed that it came out with such a resounding defeat," he said, "the only bright spot was with Otterville. To me, (Otterville's vote) shows educational leadership and concern for their kids. Unfortunately, that was not evident in other areas."

Otterville, which petitioned about six months ago to become a member of the community college district, recorded the highest percentage of "yes" votes, 75 per cent. The vote in Otterville was 87 in favor to 29 opposed.

The levy also carried in Sedalia, which recorded 1,741 "yes" votes or 56.2 per cent. Total "no" votes were 1,357 in Sedalia.

In Benton County, however, the levy fared the worst. The number of "yes" votes there was 426, or only 19.63 per cent of the total, while 1,644 Benton County citizens voted against the proposal.

The vote in the Pettis County rural townships was closer, with 864 residents voting in favor of the levy and 1,159 voting against.

The Morgan County tally was 22 in favor to 34 opposed.

Davis said he did not expect the levy to be defeated by such a wide margin. "I thought it would be very close," he said. Davis said the light voter turnout in Sedalia may have been a deciding factor in the levy's defeat.

As of February, 1974, the number of registered voters in Sedalia stood at 12,586. The total number of Sedalians voting in Tuesday's election was 3,098, not counting absentee ballots.

If the levy had passed, property owners living in the junior college district would have paid an increase of 60 cents per $100 assessed valuation for one year in addition to the existing 38-cent levy, which would have raised an estimated $750,000.

Federal and state departments of vocational education would then have put up about $650,000 in matching funds. The total cost would have been around $1,400,000 for the vocational-technical facility, which would have been located immediately east of the Yeater Learning Resources Center.

Davis said the community college would lose its eligibility for the matching funds in April. "We've lost the $650,000," Davis said, "that money's gone." He said the money would not again be available to the college for at least 10 years, since school districts in other parts of the state would now become eligible for the matching grants. "There are about 30-some schools ahead of us (eligible for the matching funds)," he said, "and they usually help about three (districts) a year."

William Hopkins, chairman of the SFCC Board of Trustees, said the vocational-technical department will have to "re-evaluate" itself as a result of the tax levy failure.

The question is, he said, "can we continue the high school programs as an area vocational school as opposed to ... concentrating only on the college students."

Hopkins said the college vocational department's first obligation was to SFCC students. The levy's defeat, he said, could force a reduction in the number of high school programs or students in the vocational-technical program since more college students are enrolling in the program every year.

Davis said there are 253 high school students enrolled this year. He added that the proposed vocational-technical building could have accommodated about 400 high school students.

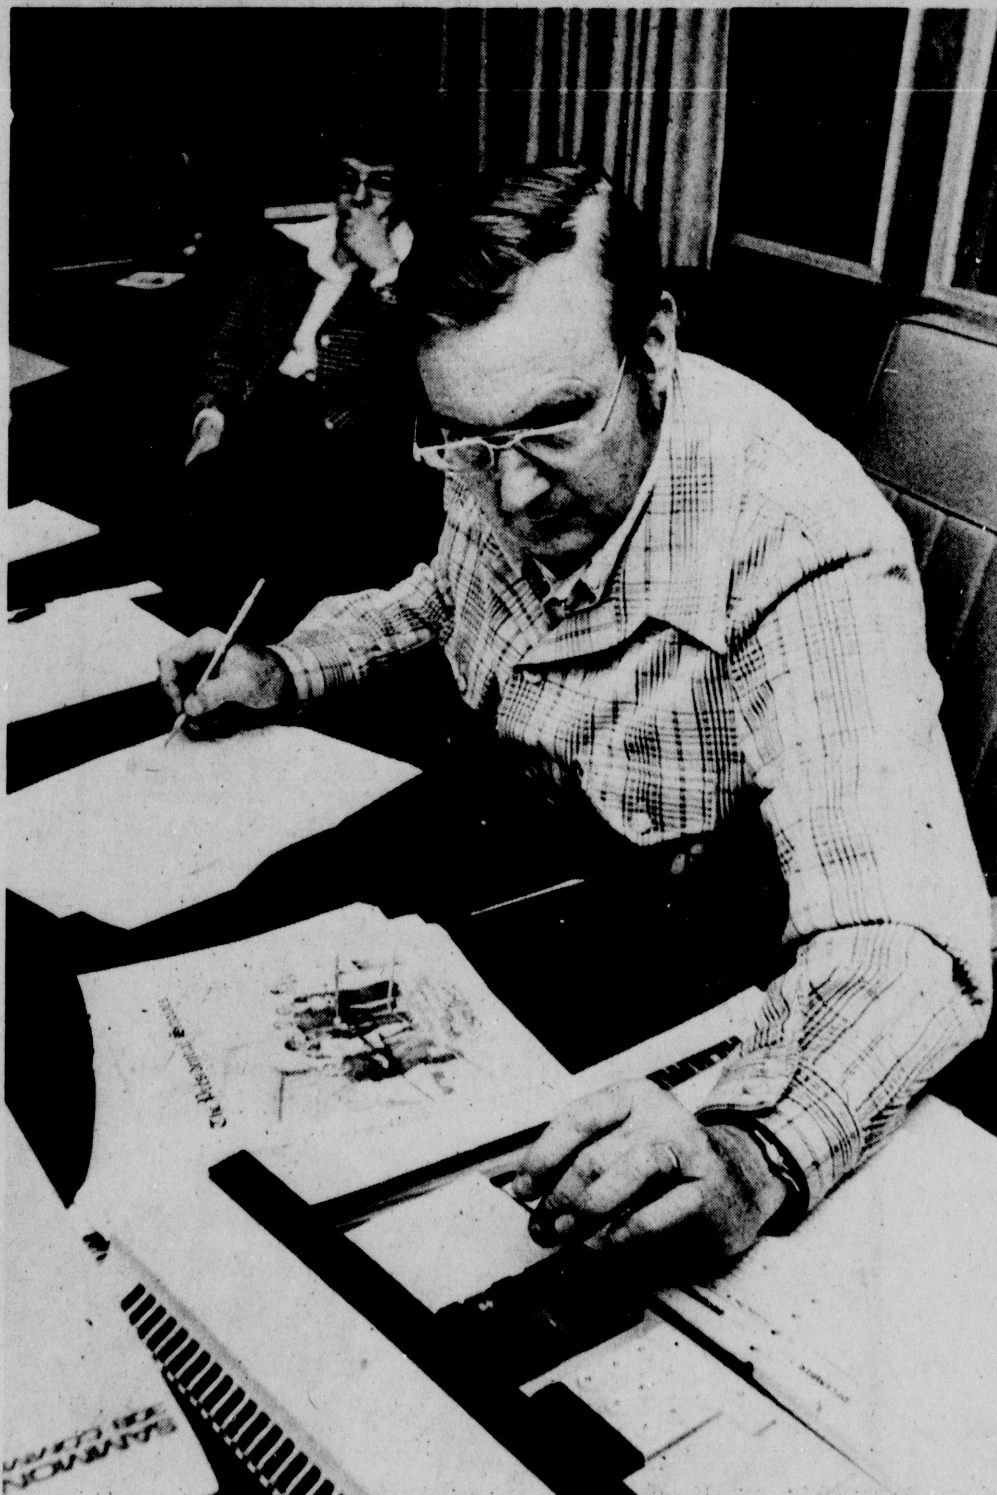

Larry Melton, executive director of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, said the vote indicated the community's feelings toward the vocational-technical program "very clearly."

"The community has indicated its unwillingness to support (the program)," he said.

Melton, who had headed a "Committee for 5,000," which was designed to secure 5,000 votes for the district, said he felt the voters in the junior college district were not completely "economically" motivated in rejecting the levy.

The vote shows "a lack of interest."

tax levy went to its defeat by more than 1,000 votes. Tuesday was the fifth time voters refused to approve an issue to help the college secure building funds.

Senate rejects motion to table

Aid plan clears hurdle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's $2.3 billion loan plan for New York City passed its first Senate test today as opponents lost overwhelmingly in an attempt to send it back to committee.

By a vote of 57 to 23, the Senate voted to table a motion by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., to send the loan bill back to the Banking Committee.

The vote set the stage for final action by the Senate on Friday.

It came after 21 senators petitioned to block a filibuster against the plan, approved by a 10-vote margin in the House. Backers of the measure hoped for final passage before New York faces its next default deadline Dec. 11.

Helms objected to the petition for cloture, saying he wanted to debate it.

But such a petition is not debatable under Senate rules, which permit a vote on the petition two days after it is filed.

Senate leaders say they have the 60 votes needed to approve the petition.

The House gave approval Tuesday to the measure on a vote of 213 to 203, with 38 Republicans and 175 Democrats voting in favor of the aid plan.

Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., said he would filibuster the bill when it reaches the Senate, but he admitted he thinks aid supporters will have the votes to invoke cloture and shut off the talkathon.

A filibuster could delay action on the bill because it takes at least two days to shut off debate. Opponents of the aid plan conceded after the House vote that backers of the bill have the momentum to get the measure through the Senate.

House approval of the bill brought relieved sighs from New York officials.

Mayor Abraham Beame said the vote shows "New York City still has friends and supporters around the country" and voiced doubt that the city would again have to ask the federal government for aid.

Laotians abolish coalition, monarchy

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The People's Congress of Laos has abolished the monarchy, the coalition government and the Joint National Political Council and unanimously agreed to form a people's republic. Radio Vientiane announced today.

The broadcast said the congress, at a meeting Monday and Tuesday, received a letter of abdication from King Savang Vathana and a letter of resignation from the head of the coalition government, the 74-year-old neutralist premier, Prince Souvanna Phouma.

The broadcast said the new official name of Laos would be the People's Democratic Republic of Laos.

"In response to the wishes of all the people of the kingdom of Laos, the Neo Lao Hak Xat called for the meeting of the People's Congress on Dec. 1 and 2 to take that action," the broadcast said.

The Neo Lao Hak Xat is the political arm of the Communist Pathet Lao, which took control of the government last spring but continued the conservative-neutralist-Communist coalition as a facade. Since then Souvanna Phouma has been virtually powerless.

The broadcast said the congress unanimously agreed to appoint a chairman of the new People's Democratic Republic of Laos and an adviser to the new government.

There was no indication who these two officials might be. Prince Souphanouvong, a half-brother of Souvanna Phouma, is the titular leader of the Pathet Lao, but some foreign observers believe he is only a figurehead.

Ali to the rescue

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali has come to the rescue of the Hillside Aged Program.

At 9 a.m. Tuesday, the program was on the verge of being closed for lack of funds to serve its 54 handicapped elderly clients. At 9:30 a.m., director Maria Brown answered a knock on the door. It was Ali.

"I understand you need a lot of money to stay open," Mrs. Brown quoted the boxer as saying. "Why don't you stay open. I'll give it to you."

News reports had said the center needs $100,000 for the next year and had been unable to get government aid. Social worker Frances Adler said Ali mentioned that figure and a little later raised it to $150,000. But he wanted to know where all the people were.

Told they didn't show up until 10 a.m. he waited.

When the old folks arrived, Mrs. Brown said, "Everyone was crying. The old people came up to hug him and kiss him. It was very moving."

The heroin connection

Spotlight on a pusher

(This is the third in a series of articles on the heroin problem in Sedalia. The previous two surveyed the extent of heroin addiction here, what the drug does to addicts, and discussed the reasons addicts themselves give for getting hooked. Today the subject is the pusher. — Ed.)

By MAX ERKILETIAN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Since early 1974 a Sedalian in his mid-twenties has earned a good living from monopolizing the sale of heroin in this city. The income from his "job" has brought him enough personal wealth to compile sizable savings, purchase late model cars and stay in area motels, when desired.

When asked who supplies heroin in Sedalia, one name was repeated by every source interviewed. For purposes of this report, he will be known as "Dale."

"No heroin comes into town," said one user, "that Dale doesn't handle."

Heroin reaching Sedalia is called "Mexican Brown." It is distinguished by color from the "European" or white heroin, which comes mainly from Turkey. The local supply of heroin originates in Mexico. It is smuggled or flown across the border, and from there transported to Kansas City. Reputed organized crime figures dispense the drug from Kansas City to area dealers on both sides of the state line.

Through informed sources and surveillance, The Democrat-Capital has learned that the pusher makes random trips to an apartment in Independence, Mo., where he picks up an undetermined amount of heroin.

"No one knows when he goes (to get the heroin) for sure," said one source. "He just takes off whenever he runs out."

The pusher buys pure heroin for a reported $20 a gram. The standard price to addicts for diluted or "cut" heroin ranges from $60 to $70 a gram, depending on one's relationship with the pusher.

The dealer sells every night from approximately 7 to 9 p.m. out of a trailer belonging to two brothers, both users, in the South Grand Trailer Court.

One former user recalls:

"He'd have a pure bag, half stomped (diluted) and some really stomped s---. Someone who owed him money, he'd sell the worst stuff. Someone he didn't care about he'd sell the half stomped. Someone trying to get off junk and someone there for their first time back after trying to kick junk, he'd give them pure."

The dealer sells every night from approximately 7 to 9 p.m. out of a trailer belonging to two brothers, both users, in the South Grand Trailer Court. Security is tight. To enter the trailer, one must be known to the owners and the pusher.

During the course of its investigation, The Democrat-Capital kept surveillance on this location. Dale's car was always observed during sales hours along with several others. While most trailers had only one or two cars parked nearby, the sales location always had at least five cars parked around it, either in front, across the road (where there are no other trailers) or to the side.

On one occasion, a door was opened and a large group of young people were observed inside.

Once inside the trailer, the buyer waits in the living room or kitchen areas in the north end of the trailer. When it is time for the buy, the user walks down a hallway to a bedroom on the south end of the trailer. Next to the bedroom is the bathroom. In the event of a raid, the pusher would attempt to flush his heroin down the toilet.

The pusher sits in the bedroom with scales to measure the amount of heroin purchased. The scales are also used when diluting or "cutting" the heroin. The exchange of money for heroin takes place in the bedroom between the user and pusher. The user can either leave with the heroin or "snort" or "shoot up" in another room.

One user, describing purchases made at a residential location once used by the pusher for sales, gave The Democrat-Capital this account:

"Two or three people would meet you at the door. If they knew you they'd let you in. You'd walk through this little like hall and into a living room. They (users) always called it the 'waiting room.' You'd sit there until they called for you."

Profits are high. 'I'd say he (Dale) makes $1,000 a night on Fridays and Saturdays easy,' speculated one source.

Then you'd be led through this bedroom and into another like living room where Dale would sit with his scales and junk. Every time I was in there, there'd be one or two people sitting on this couch folding dime bags ($10 worth of heroin)."

Many pushers dilute the heroin they sell to support their own habits. However, Dale is not a user. As a result, he does not dilute his supply as much as most pushers do, and has earned a reputation for selling quality heroin.

"There are people who come all the way from the city (Kansas City) to get their junk," revealed one user.

Profits are high. "I'd say he (Dale) makes $1,000 a night on Fridays and Saturdays easy," speculated one source. Another user, who occasionally sold heroin and other drugs, claimed to have seen passbooks from Kansas City banks in which the pusher had balances totaling $15,000 and $30,000.

The pusher began selling from a basement apartment in his parents' home on East 24th Street. After someone stole his supply there, he relocated in a trailer in Wilson's Trailer Court. He later moved to Heritage Village, where he sold until moving to an apartment on West Third.

A few months ago, he abandoned the Third Street location and moved into a house on Dal-Whi-Mo Court with a married couple, both addicts. He sold from their house until a little over a month ago. Since that time he has lived at his parents' house and in motels and hotels in Sedalia and Warrensburg, according to sources within the drug community. He is now selling from the trailer on South Grand.

Approximately four weeks ago, he was registered with his girlfriend at the Ramada Inn under a relative's name. He moved from there following a fight. More recently, he and his girlfriend were registered as man and wife in the Sedalia Motel under the name "Sidney Cox."

New facility ready for fire department

The Sedalia fire department was scheduled to move into its first new headquarters in 88 years Wednesday afternoon.

After almost six months of construction, the new Central Fire Station at 600 South Hancock is ready for firefighters.

Two existing fire stations will be consolidated in the new building. The old headquarters at 211 South Kentucky will be torn down to provide parking spaces for the Municipal Building. No definite plans have been made by the city for the use of the other station at Fourth and Montgomery.

The new station was constructed by Tempel-Callison Construction Co. at a cost of about $161,000. It will house two pumper trucks and the department's ladder truck. The sleeping quarters and day-room are separate from the apparatus room in the new building. In both old buildings one fireman always had to sleep in the same room with the trucks. Eight or nine firemen will be stationed in the new building, which has offices for the chief, assistant chiefs and chief of fire prevention.

The new station was the subject of some controversy among councilmen in February when the council split equally on the issue along party lines. The tie was broken by Mayor Jerry Jones.

The location of the station and the combination of the two stations were suggested by the Insurance Services Office, which sets insurance rates for cities in Missouri and classifies them on the basis of fire protection.

Zumwalt terms talks a 'mockery'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Chief of Naval Operations Elmo R. Zumwalt says the Soviet Union has turned strategic arms limitation talks into a "grotesque mockery" and that information outlining Russian violations is being withheld from President Ford.

Zumwalt told the House intelligence committee on Tuesday that Ford has not mastered details of the arms limitation agreements on his own and that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has been less than candid in explaining the violations to the President.

Specifically, Zumwalt said the Soviets had violated the arms agreements by interfering with U.S. means for monitoring compliance and by testing missile detection radar. Zumwalt told the committee he would explain further during a closed session. He did say the interference concerned U.S. longrange radar.

Zumwalt's allegations were challenged by several panel members, but all his charges were not covered during the public session.

These violations, Zumwalt said, involved Soviet building of additional and larger missile silos, upgrading of missile defenses, deployment of mobile missiles and building of larger missiles.

Otterville's school has new classification

OTTERVILLE — The local R-VI school system has been elevated to a "AA" classification for the 1975-76 school year by the State Department of Education.

Since July, 1974, when the state implemented new provisions for school district classifications for accreditation, school district officials have worked to achieve the AA ranking.

Since that date, the following improvements have been made: expansion of curriculum from 29 units of credit to 63.50; participation in the State Fair Community College high school vocational education program; addition of a full-time librarian; enlargement of media resources; and implementation of complete guidance and counseling services, including a full-scale testing program for both elementary and secondary students.

Other improvements include: establishment of a learning center utilizing specialists in learning disabilities, speech and language development; cooperation with the Sedalia Children's Therapy Center and State School 21; enlarging the faculty from 17 to 26; and system including almost all new ownership of a transportation buses.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The spicy odors of sausage making still float from Iacopi's meat market in North Beach, where once coriander, cinnamon, fennel, mace, nutmeg, wine and peppers wafted from the back room of every little Italian butcher shop.

But tighter standards, high taxes and costs of production shooed all but a tiny cadre of sausage-stuffers out to the suburbs after World War II to practice the art described in a cookbook 1,700 years ago.

One of those left here is 60-year-old Anthony Iacopi, whose old electric grinder shudders into life beneath a bare light bulb for a weekly ritual to produce 60 pounds of sausage in the family tradition. Everybody knows that no two sausage makers make the same sausage.

Most of this small production goes to Iacopi's friends who can't bear to face a sausage from a foreign neighborhood or a strange hand. They detect the unspecified ingredient: love. "I have a lot of old customers," Iacopi says.

Another diehard is 78-year-old Fred Casassa, patriarch of the Buon Gusto salami factory, still standing its savory ground after nearly 30 years to produce 50,000 pounds of salamis a month.

"It is my life," said Casassa, a virtuoso who proudly sees each shipment off in the parking lot.

At Iacopi's the whirling chopper goes on duty every Friday afternoon. Into the machine go two parts pale pork butt to one part red beef, seasoned differently for a different result.

Into the hot, red Calabrese sausage go chilis, sweet pepper, fennel seed and salt; the sweet white Sicilian sausages get fennel seed, black pepper and salt, while the brown Tuscano variety is ground with garlic, cinnamon, nutmeg, pepper and salt.

The mix emerges from the grinder's pot to be pressed into shimmering intestinal casings. Strings flick dextrously and the long casings are tied off into strands of sausages, ultimately to join olive oil, vegetables, eggs and tomato paste to appease neighborhood appetites.

At the salami factory, four parts of lean beef are ground up with one of pork, pork fat, shots of sauterne, and coriander, mace, cinnamon, black pepper and garlic.

The fragrant cloud that results, along with the overhead racks of salami curing underground, wafts onto the street to mingle with the sweet aromas of the neighborhood bakery, and a Chinese fortune cookie barbershop and espresso house, factory.

Auto parts

stolen; parking meter missing

Two automobile repair ramps and a gasoline cap lock valued at $100 were taken Nov. 24 from the home of Jack W. Thomas, 1617 East 13th, he told police Monday. He said the ramps were next to the front door of his house and the gasoline cap lock was pried off his car, parked in front of his house. The items were taken between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m., he told police.

A parking meter valued at $75 was taken from the 100 block of North Lamine. David Schick, superintendent of the city parking meter department, 1811 East Ninth, told police Tuesday. He said the meter was last seen Saturday, but when the money collection for the meters was made Tuesday, the meter was gone.

A billfold, containing about $20 in cash and numerous credit cards, was stolen from Karole K. Hickman, 300 West Ave., sometime between 9:30 p.m. and midnight Monday while she was at the Red Apple Lanes. Police reported the billfold was later found without the cash or cards in a restroom at the bowling lanes.

Second threat of bomb empties SFCC

For the second time in two months, State Fair Community College buildings were evacuated because of a bomb threat, this one telephoned to the SFCC student union by a woman around 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The call came in through a pay telephone.

College President Fred Davis noted the first bomb threat was phoned to the college Oct. 3, the day after the SFCC Board of Trustees voted to hold a one-year 60 cent levy election to help finance construction of a vocational-technical facility on the campus. This second threat came on the day of the election.

"Somebody is just being pretty nasty and idiotic," Davis said. "That's about all you can say."

Help for elderly meeting topic

Noting in his introductory remarks that "we as Americans spend more money on concealing age than in caring for the aged," the Rev. Fred Hueners, chairman of the Sedalia Council on Aging, set the tone Wednesday morning for the Central Missouri Regional Conference on Aging at the Sedalia Community Center.

Aging, Mr. Hueners told an audience of about 40 elderly persons and representatives of agencies serving the elderly, "was intended by God as a blessing, as a natural and beautiful stage in the life process." However, he continued, "it is something that is being discovered by many millions of people to be considerably less than that."

One out of every 10 Americans, he noted, is age 65 or older, for a total of approximately 20 million people. Two-thirds of this age group suffer from chronic illnesses such as high blood pressure, arthritis and diabetes, while one-fourth of them live below federal poverty levels. Another 10 per cent of these people exist on social security alone, Mr. Hueners added.

Offering specific advice for the elderly was guest speaker Dr. Brad Bayliss, of Missouri Valley College, Marshall, who outlined guidelines for choosing where to live, understanding financial problems, caring for physical health and for learning to accept changed relationships.

Decisions about possibly changing the living conditions of elderly persons should be made "with full participation in discussions by the elderly," Bayliss said. "When such a step is taken, the needs of all concerned should be looked at and taken into considerations as openly as possible."

Regarding financial matters, Bayliss noted that forced retirement at 65 can be harmful in two ways — by reducing income and creating psychological shock in persons who have difficulty adjusting to their new role. He pointed out that social security increases help offset inflation and the higher cost-of-living, but added that there is generally a time lag of about one year in payment increases matching existing cost of living figures.

Commenting on illnesses, Bayliss stressed the importance of the elderly person's family in encouraging such the elderly to have frequent medical checkups and to make sure that they avail themselves of all sources of assistance, such as Older Adults Transportation Service (OATS), county health programs and other programs.

Another problem confronting the elderly is changed relationships caused by the death of one's spouse, the moving away of children and other factors. Adjustment to such changed conditions can be facilitated through participation in community senior center activities, church-related programs and organizations such as the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), Bayliss said.

Also addressing the group was Ken Marlin, of the Community Services Department at the Mid-Missouri Mental Health Center, Columbia. Marlin focused in on steps that can be taken to insure a positive, progressive outlook on life, which he said was important at all ages, not just among the elderly.

"A person's mental condition is not necessarily related to the circumstances of his life, no matter what they may be," he said. "A person who has been through the most harrowing of experiences with the proper perspective will come through far, far better than persons with comparatively smaller problems and a poor attitude."

In dealing with the elderly, Marlin said, persons must remove their prejudices against the elderly "and not treat them like children." They must also listen to the elderly without judging or criticizing and be sincerely interested in their problems.

Wednesday afternoon, the group divided into smaller groups to discuss items included in the morning program.

Guerrillas promise reprisal for raid

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Palestine guerrilla command today promised "immediate reprisals" for the big Israeli air raid Tuesday, and the Lebanese and Egyptian governments asked the United Nations Security Council for an urgent meeting to take up charges of aggression against Israel.

The Palestinians said it was "the biggest attack in the history of Israeli assaults against Palestinians in Lebanon," and a message on behalf of Pope Paul VI called it an "inadmissible gesture of violence."

Lebanese police said seven more bodies were recovered today, bringing the toll to about 100 killed and more than 150 wounded in the attacks on refugee camps and guerrilla bases in northern and southern Lebanon.

A telegram sent to Lebanon on behalf of Pope Paul VI said the pontiff was deeply saddened by the attack, which he felt "exasperates tension in the region and Lebanon."

Pope Paul appealed to all sides to put an end "to similar acts and show moderation and a concrete will to favor the way toward pacification." Vatican Secretary of State Jean Cardinal Villot sent the telegram to the papal nuncio in Beirut, urging him to convey the Pope's condolences to Lebanese authorities and relatives of the victims.

Egypt charged that by carrying out the raid Israel had violated the spirit of the troop disengagement agreements worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger between Israel and Egypt and Syria.

FBI thwarts attempt to extort $150,000

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An intricate plot to extort $150,000 from Clarence C. Barksdale, president of the First National Bank in St. Louis was foiled by the FBI Tuesday.

Extortionists hoped to secure the money by wiring the bank president with an allegedly explosive belt capable of being detonated by a radio signal. The FBI used one of its own men as a stand-in for Barksdale.

The FBI arrested John D. Frazier, 53, Tuesday in connection with the plot. He lives in St. Charles County just south of St. Peters.

Agents working on the case said Frazier retired from the U.S. Navy in 1968 as a lieutenant commander. He was a high explosives expert in the service.

The FBI expected to charge Frazier under the Hobbs Act with extortion. He was to appear Wednesday morning before federal Magistrate William H. Bond. Agents said they learned of the plot several days ago and knew the allegedly explosive belt was harmless. They gave this account of the incident:

At 7:45 a.m. Tuesday morning the Barksdale stand-in was accosted by two men wearing stocking masks as he left the Barksdale home. A dog-chain type belt with the "explosive" device was forcefully attached to his wrist.

"Barksdale" was given a citizen's band radio from which to receive instructions. He was told the belt could be detonated by radio. The assailants then fled.

"Barksdale" and other FBI agents went to the First National Bank where they received three phone calls.

The first call confirmed that

"Barksdale" had arrived. The second time the caller said, "One hundred and fifty-thousand dollars or you're going to be blown up."

The third warned, "Time is getting short."

The agents then put an unspecified amount of money in two First National Bank moneybags. They drove to the upper parking lot of Lambert St. Louis International Airport, where the agents waited a short time.

Agents spotted Frazier at the scene, but Frazier failed to approach the car and left the area was arrest in suburban O'Fallon, as he drove away from the airport.

The FBI said the "explosive device" contained a packet of wires and six-inch broomstick pieces.

Cablevision asks for new judge in its civil suit

Cablevision, Inc., Tuesday filed a motion to disqualify Circuit Judge Frank Meyer from hearing its civil suit against the city of Sedalia pertaining to a rate increase.

Judge Meyer granted the motion the same day and indicated a new judge would be assigned to the case by the Missouri Supreme Court. Cablevision did not specify a reason for wanting the change.

The company filed the suit Oct. 30 against the city in an effort to obtain a $6.90 per month rate increase. The suit, a "petition for review," maintains that the City Council's Oct. 6 denial of the $6.90 rate request has prevented the company from establishing "fair and reasonable rates and charges for installation of equipment and regular subscriber services."

The subscription rate for Cablevision's services went from $4.90 to $5.90 in January. After a further increase to $6.15, the company's Aug. 4 request for an increase to $6.90 was voted down by the council Oct. 6.

Dear Friends:

Lucy and I would like to express our thanks and appreciation to each and every one of you for your many years kindnesses. We have lived in Sedalia for the past 27 years.

From August 1, 1948 until June 15, 1961, I practiced pharmacy at the Main Street Drug Store and then established our own prescription shop at 212 South Ohio Street. We have sold this business to Mr. John Banion, president of Sedalia Drug, Inc., who took possession November 1, 1975.

We realize how much we are going to miss each of you and will have fond memories of so many happenings. Such things cannot be fully expressed in words. I would like to assure that my goal has been to fill each and every prescription prayerfully.

To Mrs. Harry (Eva) Hoffert, who has been a most trusted and valuable employee for all of these many years... we would like to publicly express our sincere thanks... she is a wonderful person. The same feeling goes for Mr. Henry Heitman, Registered Pharmacist.

Many people have remarked during the years that we have had such nice employees and I certainly agree and feel that we have been most fortunate.

Lucy and I would urge you to continue to have your prescriptions filled at Warren's Rx Prescription Shop.

Many, many thanks to each of you, our friends.

Lucy and A. B. Warren

Driver, student hurt in accident

GREEN RIDGE — The driver of a Green Ridge school bus and a passenger in the vehicle were injured Tuesday when the bus overturned in a ditch on Route B, 1.9 miles west of Route 127 near here.

The accident occurred about 5:35 p.m. as the driver, Paul N. Poort, 43, Green Ridge, swerved the west-bound bus in an attempt to avoid striking a cow in the road.

Poort was treated at Bothwell Hospital for lacerations to the forehead and later dismissed. A student, Thomas Riley Hampton II, 15, Green Ridge, was treated for a broken nose and then released.

There were 39 passengers on the bus at the time of the collision. The owner of the cow, which was killed in the incident, has not been identified. "Most of the time, in an incident like this, the cow becomes a 'wild animal' because few people will claim it," a spokesman for the Missouri Highway Patrol said.

The bus was en route to a basketball game at the time of the accident.

GOP, Democratic parties called 'bit decrepit'

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Maverick California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., who has baffled observers with an unorthodox mix of liberal and conservative politics, says the Democratic and Republican parties are "getting a bit decrepit."

"They'd better wake up, or some other party may come along and take their place," the 37-year-old Democrat said in an interview with The Associated Press.

Brown campaigned last year as a liberal Democrat. But since taking office last Jan. 6, he has adopted both liberal and conservative policies, confusing supporters and foes alike.

He put former welfare rights attorneys in charge of state welfare programs and Sierra Club conservationists in charge of the state resources agency. He signed numerous bills backed by liberals, including repeal of laws against homosexuals and reductions in marijuana penalties.

But Brown also adopted a budget that is more stringent than his conservative Republican predecessor, Ronald Reagan. He backed and signed tough bills increasing penalties for major crimes. He also says many liberal-backed "social intervention programs" of the 1960s are failures which should be abandoned.

California pollster Mervin Fields' most recent state survey showed that Californians approved of Brown's policies by a margin of better than 7 to 1.

Brown, who is frequently mentioned as a potential Democratic candidate for President in 1976 or 1980, said he intends to continue to work within the Democratic party.

But he said he questions the old political divisions along liberal and conservative lines. He said he doesn't know what the new political alliances will be.

Here are some of the questions and answers from the interview:

Q: Are the Democratic and Republican parties relevant to today's politics?

A: It's too early to tell. There are definite changes going on that might require realignment. From where I look at things now, it's just impossible to predict with any certainty the shape of future political coalitions and organizations. But obviously, there are new demands.

Q: Do we need a third major party?

A: Whether the two parties can meet this challenge is an open question. There's certainly enough discontent in the land that some leadership and new direction might come from a third or fourth party. As yet I don't see it materializing.

Q: What sort of new political alliances do you foresee? How would they differ from the Republican-Democratic or conservative-liberal divisions of today?

A: There are certain basic values such as work, giving something for whatever you get, preserving the family structure that certainly are talked about a great deal by conservatives. But in order to preserve these values it may require certain kinds of government intervention that would be deemed more liberal.

Q: What is wrong with the Democratic-Republican, liberal-conservative political divisions?

A: I think the conservative notion that we don't need government, because people will find (their needs) in the private sector, is coming under challenge. On the other hand, the liberal notion that we'll just increase taxes a little bit and give things out to people in need — we're finding out the needs grow much faster than the satisfaction of those needs.

Big institutions are weighing very heavily on the lives of people. I think there's an increasing movement toward regimentation of individuals, and that movement is coming from both liberals and conservatives. It doesn't respect old ideological lines.

Q: Are you attempting to challenge the existing parties?

A: No, I haven't as yet.

Q: As yet? Does that mean you might move outside of the Democratic party?

A: No, I'm a Democrat working in the vineyards, hopefully to change the direction of the party to something I think is more in keeping with today's reality.

Q: If the party doesn't change, would you ever become an independent?

A: I feel I am very independent. I think the Democratic party has been the party of change and independence in direction. But I would not be too complacent if I were either the chairman of the Democratic party or sitting in the high councils, because things are moving in a way we had better take account of, or that party will go the way of a lot of others that have not changed with the times.

Q: What do you mean by changing with the times?

A: I mean we've got to face up to the change in the economic rules, the fact that the country militarily, morally and economically is weakened. The problems that we see, where people discriminate against Americans, or vote against our interests (in the United Nations) are reflections of a basic lack of leadership and strength in this country.

Polly's pointers

Super solution for sticky chairs

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is that we can no longer buy soles to apply to the bottoms of shoes. We surely need these as never before. Long ago there were two or three brands of soles that one could easily apply to worn-out soles when the shoe tops were still good. — GLADYS.

DEAR POLLY — When removing buttons from worn out garments I thread them on a length of dental floss and knot the ends together. This keeps buttons that are alike together for quick use without going through the entire box. It is also less likely to break than thread. — MAUREEN.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — My dining room chairs are varnished wood with plastic seats and backs and are sticky to the touch. Washing them has not helped. Do you have an answer to my problem. — MRS. J.O.

DEAR MRS. J.O. — The following wash will remove a sticky film of dirt from wood. Mix three tablespoons linseed oil, one tablespoon turpentine and a quart of hot water and then let cool. Wring a soft cloth out of this and wash a small area at a time. Dry IMMEDIATELY with another soft dry cloth and continue until all is washed. Polish by rubbing with the grain of the wood. — POLLY.

International marketplace

Mrs. James Callis, Route 2, arranges items for the annual international market at the Missouri Public Service building, 400 South Ohio. The five-day sale, sponsored by the Church Women United, begins Wednesday and is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. Honored by FFA

SWEET SPRINGS — Jerry Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Reid, Houstonia, recently was presented the American Farmer degree, the highest degree possible to members of the Future Farmers of America. The presentation was made during the National FFA convention in Kansas City.

Reid, who is married and lives here, was one of 703 FFA members selected to receive the degree. Only about one per cent of all FFA members hold such a degree, it was reported.

When Aruba was discovered by Spanish explorers nearly 500 years ago, it was considered worthless. Today the little island just off the coast of Venezuela is one of the most popular tourist destinations in the Caribbean, attracting more than 100,000 vacationers annually.

Ann Landers

Father leads son to drink

Dear Ann Landers: Even though the odds are a million to one against my letter getting in the paper, I'm going to write it anyway.

I'm a senior in high school, age 17, and male. I gulped down two big double shots of gin this morning before I left for school. Suddenly I realized I'm an alcoholic.

I started to drink when I was 15. I've been drinking heavily for about six months. My grades in school aren't as good as they were, but they aren't bad. I've never flunked anything. I have fallen asleep in class but no one suspects I'm a boozier. I never drink more than anyone else when I'm in a crowd. I do my serious drinking alone.

I know my problem. It's my father. He picks on Mom all the time, thinks he knows everything and has a terrible temper. He was the only male in a family with six girls and tries to run everyone's life. I guess I hate him.

I have no one to turn to for help but I know I need it. Please tell me what to do. — Too Young To Be A Drunk

Dar Friend: Have you thought of talking to your high school counselor? Don't shrug this suggestion off until you've tried it. Like everything else, some counselors are more hip than others. I hope your school has good ones.

Look in the phone book for Alcoholics Anonymous. Find out when your neighborhood group meets. It's free and nobody asks questions. A.A. has a higher rate of success in rehabilitating alcoholics than psychiatry, religion, hypnosis, etc. Please give it a try.

Dear Ann Landers: May I be you today? Here's my letter: Dear Pet Owner: I killed your dog today. He dashed onto the highway from behind shrubbery, not ten feet in front of my wheels. Being only a dog, he couldn't know that an automobile cannot stop from fifty miles an hour in ten feet. Had he cleared my wheels, the oncoming car would have hit him. From the time you let him out your door unsupervised, this was his inevitable fate.

All day I have felt sick inside. I love dogs — have had at least one ever since I was very young. But within the sick feeling, there is cold anger — anger at you, dear Pet Owner, for allowing your dog to run free, especially since you live beside a very busy and dangerous highway.

You will grieve at the loss of your pet, but if you ever again own a dog, please keep him behind a fence or on a leash. Spare yourself and me the grief of his death. I live in St. Louis but I could be — Any Driver. Anywhere

Dear Driver: That same terrible fate befalls three million pets a year. Thank you for telling us how it looks from behind the wheel.

General agrees to preside

FT. LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (AP) — Maj. Gen. David E. Ott of Fort Sill, Okla., has agreed to accept jurisdiction of military charges against three Ft. Leonard Wood instructors.

The charges against the three instructors were dismissed a month ago after a military judge found there was command influence in the decision to send them to trial.

The decision by Gen. Ott leaves him with the authority to reinstate charges or free the men.

They are Sgt. I.C. John Dent, 33, Columbia, S.C.; Sgt. I.C.

George F. Cressel, 34, Park Rapids, Minn., and S. Sgt. Donald R. Murray, 31, whose hometown was not available.

Two other drill instructors at Ft. Leonard Wood have been court-martialed.

Tuesday officials here said they were refiling charges against S. Sgt. Ellington D. Lockett, 28, Ponca City, Okla. Charges were dropped Nov. 17 against Lockett by a military judge who said they were not properly drawn. Lockett is charged with soliciting and receiving personal property from trainees. No trial date was set.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

As early as March 1776 the British used the term "Brother Jonathan" to designate Americans. Legend has it that the expression had its origin with Gov. Jonathan Trumbull (the elder) of Connecticut. Trumbull was a key man in the support of Washington's army and the Commander-in-Chief allegedly relied upon him a great deal. However, there is no historical evidence to connect the phrase with the governor. The World Almanac notes.

New York banks would lose most

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON — A great deal of misinformation is abroad about New York City's financial plight.

Cromley

One thing remains clear. Regardless of federal aid and guarantees, unless Washington intends to permanently subsidize the city, New York must, in the end raise taxes sharply or cut back selectively — but drastically — on services, salaries, employment and possibly pensions. A one-shot federal assistance and guarantee will not change that requirement. At most, it will postpone the hard decisions.

As most of us know from experience, when a rough decision must be made, it is better it be made quickly. This argues in favor of city action, down to the quick, and then consideration of federal action — not the reverse.

The argument over whether New York should go into bankruptcy or not has, in the main, nothing to do with what services will be continued and what ones eliminated. As noted above, those nasty decisions must be made in any event.

The argument for bankruptcy is, simply, that the men who run New York City won't realistically face up to their problems so long as temporary relief is in sight.

The plain and simple fact is that it will help not the people of New York City but the shareholders of those banks which have invested heavily in New York City bonds. This assumes that interest payments on the investments will continue, but that there will be a moratorium on redemptions.

Six major New York banks alone hold more than a billion dollars worth of the bonds. They also hold two-thirds of a billion dollars in Big MAC debts.

The problem is complicated because these same banks hold more than $400 million of W.T. Grant paper and have been hurt by the failure of that large retail chain.

They have also been hit by the series of catastrophes — mainly over-expansion, overspeculation and sloppy financial practices — which have driven some major real estate investment trust values down to a small fraction of their paper worth a few years back. These same half dozen New York banks have almost $3.5 million in this paper.

All this adds up to almost $5.5 billion in questionable loans, no small amount, however it's figured.

That $5.5 billion total is equivalent to 4.1 per cent of the current average deposits of these banks. Writing down of these securities is a blow to bank shareholders, at least until New York City recovers its viability. But it by no means should cause these banks to fold or to default on their obligations.

Banks throughout the country have likewise been hit by the bursting of the real estate investment trust and other land speculation bubbles. Many have been taking more chances than their depositors realize. Numbers of bank managers are now hoping housing and real estate will recover in time to keep shareholders from climbing down their throats. But non-New York bank holdings of New York City obligations are likely to be much less percentage-wise than the holdings of the major New York banks.

The hardship on bank shareholders should not be minimized. But the effect on depositors should be negligible. Assuming that in the long run the New York City bonds will regain their value, the banking problem lies less in the New York fumbling and more in the realm of their unwise real estate and other long-shot private loans.

Carl Rowan When do coups lead to death?

WASHINGTON — One of these days the Church and Pike committees will drop their last bombshells about U.S. plots to assassinate foreign leaders and overthrow foreign governments. Once the cries of shame and outrage have faded, the American people are going to have to come to grips with a simple question:

Rowan

Do we want to control the ideology, determine the leadership, of foreign governments, or do we not?

Oh, I know what the public pretense is and will be. We've endorsed a United Nations Charter and a hundred other documents in which we've pledged not to interfere in the internal affairs of other nations.

But everyone has always known such declarations were merely hypocritical gestures toward the kind of world that ideally ought to exist.

Since World War II it has been accepted as routine that the Soviet Union would spend billions of rubles, employ thousands of agents, to ensure the existence of regimes friendly to Russia in Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, East Germany, etc., and would intervene with troops where money and espionage failed.

It has been accepted as part of international competition that the Soviets would finance newspapers in Latin America and Africa, the Chinese would arm rebels in East Africa, the Indians would subvert any regime in Bangladesh that seemed even a remote threat to India.

The U.S. contribution to this atmosphere in which there is no such thing as an "independent" small or weak nation, and in which even the strongest are constantly in danger of subversion, has been:

✓ The use of billions of dollars to finance "friendly" labor unions, political parties, newspapers and magazines all over the world.

✓ The supplying of money, arms, damaging information and even manpower with which to destroy any person, party or political force that a handful of Americans deemed to be a "threat" to the U.S. or its power position in the world.

President Ford said in his press conference last Wednesday that he has ordered the CIA not to plan or participate in the assassination of any foreign leader. But Mr. Ford insisted that under certain circumstances the United States must "undertake covert operations."

What the President really was saying is that despite all the idealistic charters and joint communiques we have signed, we will go on interfering in the internal affairs of other countries.

Fair enough. Perhaps all the great powers ought to cut out the phony baloney. Israel, the Soviet Union, the People's Republic of China, Canada, West Germany (to name just a few) will be intensely interested in who our next presidential candidates are. All of them will drop a few subtle speeches, even sneak around a few dollars, to influence the outcome of our election.

My guess is that the American public will go along with Mr. Ford in approving "covert foreign operations."

The dilemma then is: how does anyone guarantee that a covert operation to deny an Allende the presidency in Chile will not lead directly or indirectly to Allende's murder?

We pumped millions of dollars and vast quantities of arms into Chile to bolster right-wing forces opposing the Marxist president Salvador Allende. Our agents encouraged and financed the coup in which Allende was killed.

Do we say we engaged in "covert operations," which Mr. Ford will continue to sanction, but that we had nothing to do with the murder of Allende?

Only shameful sophistry permits the drawing of any such line.

The likelihood is, the world being mean and ugly, fear will convince Americans to go on meddling and scheming abroad. And that conniving and subverting will continue to mean death for a lot of foreign leaders. And occasionally some of our leaders.

And the exercises of the Church and Pike committees will come to naught.

Cousteau's warning on Mediterranean

Jacques Cousteau, who probably knows more about the world's oceans than anyone else, has given a bleak prognosis for the future of the Mediterranean Sea.

The French oceanographer and undersea explorer told a United Nations news conference Monday that the Mediterranean is so badly polluted that only an international effort of massive scope can restore it. Without help, he said, the sea will eventually be able to support only viruses and bacteria, posing serious health problems to inhabitants of the coastal areas.

Cousteau said the Mediterranean, for centuries a depository of man's wastes, is getting to the point where it can no longer cleanse itself of the pollution that seeps into the sea from the lands surrounding it. He estimated that 90 per cent of the basin's sewage is pumped untreated into the Mediterranean, not to mention industrial wastes and agricultural runoff from the 400 million inhabitants who live in an arc surrounding the sea.

If a concerted, multi-nation clean-up effort were begun now, it would take at least 15 years to get the Mediterranean purified, Cousteau estimated. So far there has been little indication that the countries involved would be willing to undertake such a project.

Cousteau's grim report is in sharp contrast to the optimism of a few years ago, when the world's oceans were seen as an exciting new frontier. Aquatic farms, as well as new methods of harvesting seafood and minerals, were all part of the picture. Undersea cities were even envisioned by some.

The plight of the Mediterranean is by no means limited to that body of water. Recent studies have revealed that large parts of the Atlantic are equally polluted; to varying degrees this is true of the world's other oceans as well.

The promise of the oceans can still be realized. But only if the world wakes up to the fact that it can no longer afford to treat them like giant septic tanks.

"JUST WHAT WE NEED."

Merry-go-round

Nixon men pursued Democratic governors

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — In the early 1970s, district attorneys appointed by President Nixon began investigating Democratic governors across the country.

The governors are now convinced that Nixon used the federal law enforcement machinery to knock the Democrats out of power in as many states as possible.

Suddenly, Democratic chief executives in several states found themselves under searching federal scrutiny. Among them were Kentucky's Wendell Ford, Louisiana's Edwin Edwards, Maryland's Marvin Mandel, Oklahoma's David Hall and Pennsylvania's Milton Shapp.

Hall was convicted, although the FBI transcripts used in his trial had been altered. A former Democratic governor, Illinois' Otto Kerner, was also convicted. And only last week, Mandel was indicted.

In contrast, only one Republican governor, West Virginia's Arch Moore, got into trouble with the Justice Department. Tax agents had found that, as a congressman, he had lived like a millionaire during the 1962-67 period. He bought a home in the fashionable Potomac hunt country of Maryland where he kept horses and threw lavish parties. Yet he reported only $45,000 in taxable income during the entire five years.

The Internal Revenue Service recommended that Moore be prosecuted for his alleged failure to pay $168,000 in taxes. But the Justice Department, which was so eager to prosecute Democrats, let Moore off the hook.

Now Moore is facing new charges of accepting illegal campaign contributions. He slipped around to see the friendly Republicans at the Justice Department last October. Once again, he has managed to escape indictment, although a Justice Department spokesman insists the case against him hasn't been closed.

Several Democratic governors got together, meanwhile, at their 1973 governors' conference to discuss the Nixon plot against them. Shapp complained that Richard Thornberg, then the U.S. attorney in Philadelphia, not only had started an investigation of him but had leaked grand jury findings to Republicans in the Pennsylvania legislature.

Thornberg subsequently was appointed assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division, with authority over all the investigations.

Earlier this month, Mandel fired off a confidential, 19-page letter to Thornberg, charging that he had been the victim of a political witch hunt.

He charged, for example, that the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover had delivered a file full of reports about his sex life to then Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

Mandel also charged that "in 1970 and 1971 I was the subject of an investigation by the intelligence division of the Internal Revenue Service. I am also informed that, in order to avoid notifying me of this investigation, and to permit it to proceed clandestinely, the file was not opened in my name, but, instead in the former name of my present wife, Jeanne Dorsey."

Footnote: Thornberg told our associate Jack Cloherty that he had been cleared by a Justice Department investigation of leaking grand jury information against Shapp. Thornberg also insisted he had received no pressure from Washington to start the Shapp investigation.

For the average taxpayer, a long-distance call to a friend or relative is an occasional luxury. But for members of Congress, newly blessed with a pay hike and loaded with fringe benefits, long-distance calls are free. Congressional offices not only are allotted free calls during office hours but also get completely free, coast-to-coast service after hours. It's supposed to be used strictly for official business. But our own spot checks with trusted sources show that most of the after-hour calls are personal...

We recently reported charges, made by an FBI informant named Earl Robert Merritt Jr., that he had committed thefts on behalf of the FBI. We were unable to get a comment from the FBI at the time. Now the FBI has responded and we are happy to publish it. "These allegations," declares the FBI, "are fabricated and completely false. Merritt was specifically advised on several occasions that he was not to engage in any illegal activities in his efforts to obtain information. The FBI categorically denies that the activities of the agents in contact with Merritt were at any time improper..."

Air Force investigators have recommended that Sgt. Richard W. Hicks be discharged because he is a homosexual. His picture, showing him dancing with a homosexual, appeared in Newsweek magazine. Thereafter, Hicks was questioned, and he admitted being a homosexual. The investigators formally recommended that he be given an administrative discharge. He intends to fight it.

First-seeded Stover wins

By RON HIGGINS
Staff Sports Writer

WARSAW — Sixth-seeded Warsaw pulled off a 54-50 upset Tuesday night defeating third-seeded Macks Creek in the first round of play in the Warsaw Tournament.

The win gave the Wildcats their first game in the tournament's winners bracket since their coach, Jack Bybee, took over the team.

The Pirates led most of the first quarter until Warsaw broke on top, 11-10, in the last three minutes of the first quarter. From that point on, the lead changed hands.

In the last three minutes, both teams had an "eye" for the basket. Their shots seemed guided by radar, and they scraped to a 19-19 first-quarter draw.

Both clubs cooled off in the early minutes of the second quarter and couldn't score for the first two minutes. The Wildcats gave the lead to the Pirates momentarily after committing costly fouls, but Warsaw withstood the brief downfall and rallied behind Steve Spencer to a 29-26 lead at the end of the first half. Spencer, along with teammate Kevin Swearingin, scored 17 points apiece to pace the Wildcats. John Skinner led both teams with 19 points for the Pirates.

Macks Creek came back in the third quarter and pulled even, 39-39.

The Pirates made costly fouls in the opening minute of the fourth period which allowed the Wildcats to take a three-point lead.

A see-saw battle followed until the Wildcats regained their balance and surged ahead in the last two minutes to win the thriller 54-50.

The Wildcats were overmatched in height, but they blocked out Macks Creek and got their share of the rebounds.

"This is the first time this year I've felt my boys have blocked out," said Bybee.

He said they had been working on this all week in practice. "We had a few drills in practice that should have helped us," he said.

"Those kids weren't only tall, but they were physical," he explained, "and we did a good job of blocking them out."

Bybee said it was an overall team effort right down to the substitutes who did a great job. He said the team was down after their overtime loss to LaMonte last Tuesday and they were really ready for this game.

Mike Ringen, one of 10 Stover scorers, paced the Bulldogs to a 64-30 victory over the LaMonte Vikings in Tuesday's other game.

The Bulldogs muscled their way to a 19-6 first quarter margin.

The Vikings stayed even with Stover in the second quarter.

Stover got into foul trouble, but held a 31-18 advantage at the half.

Stover substituted freely in the second half.

Coach Terry Pummill of the Bulldogs was happy to have the opportunity to let his subs get some playing time. "We had a freshman playing and the more experience they get, the better off we are," he said.

"We are capable of playing good ball and if we play up to our potential, we'll have a good year," explained Coach Pummill.

There is no action Wednesday night in the tournament; play resumes Thursday with a semifinal game between Lincoln and Cole Camp at 7:30 p.m. Hermitage and Sedalia Sacred Heart kick off Thursday's card at 6 p.m. with a losers bracket game. At 9 p.m., LaMonte faces Macks Creek.

Scoring
Macks Creek (50) — Skinner 19, Routh 15, Huber 8, Cady 2, Bishop 2, Barclay 2, Osborn 2.

Macks Creek (30) — Freeman 6, Hughes 6, Files 6, Finley 4, Taylor 4, Walters 2, Dillon 2.

Stover (64) — Ringen 15, Hagedorn 12, K. Dale 11, Taylor 6, Burke 6, Fischer 4, Franklin 4, Witte 2, T. Dale 2, Eckhoff 2.

Weikal seeks control

With the official keeping a close eye on the action, Doug Weikal of Smith-Cotton tries to keep Hannibal's Daryl O'Keefe below him in the first period of

ABA countdown reaches seven

CHICAGO (AP) — Fighting a year of "financial problems," the American Basketball Association has dissolved the Utah franchise and is gearing itself to surviving as a seven-team league.

Commissioner Dave DeBusschere made the announcement proclaiming the end of the Utah franchise after ABA owners met for some six hours Tuesday and said four Utah players had been sold to the St. Louis Spirits for a "substantial amount of cash" which will be used to pay off creditors of the Utah Stars.

The players sold to St. Louis included Moses Malone, Randy Denton, Steve Green and Ron Boone. The rest of the Utah roster will undergo normal waiver procedures with the league collecting any money gained through the waivers.

The ABA is now reduced to seven teams with the Baltimore Claws and the San Diego Sails having previously folded.

"We will still have our play-offs and our All-Star game at Denver with Kentucky meeting the league All-Stars," said DeBusschere. "We will have to make some minor schedule adjustments but basically we'll go with the same schedule."

The ABA is now down to seven teams including franchises in New York, Virginia, Kentucky, Indianapolis, San Antonio, Denver and St. Louis.

"We will be a stronger league," said DeBusschere. "Our product is strong and we are still looking forward to a possible merger."

The big loser after Tuesday's meeting was Bill Daniels, owner of the Utah franchise. Daniels bowed out after losing a reported $3.1 million.

There were shouts about Daniels having to drop out during Tuesday's meeting but when it was over, Daniels simply walked away.

"The hell with the players and the hell with the press," said one source. "What have we done with Bill Daniels?"

The answer, apparently, was nothing. Daniels left the meeting almost unnoticed.

There was also some speculation that John Y. Brown, president of the ABA, would resign. "I'm still here," said Brown, whose wife owns the Kentucky franchise.

Brown would not comment on his position but a source told the Associated Press that Brown was thinking far ahead of the others.

"He wants to shake pro basketball down to the point of possibly having nothing but strong teams and a merger of the two leagues."

"Remember, everyone in the ABA lost money and only three teams in the NBA made money last year. Brown feels there is no future for pro basketball under two leagues. He thinks the fans are being penalized and that tickets are almost beyond the reach of the fans."

S-C grapplers lose to Bucs

Central Missouri Conference foe Hannibal handed Smith-Cotton a 36-14 home-opening loss in the Fine Arts and Physical Education Building Tuesday night as the Tigers kicked off the CMC wrestling slate.

Eugen Sims (98), Rocky Wooster (126) and Wes Yates (heavyweight) recorded the only victory wins for the Tigers.

Mark Howell earned a tie in his 155-pound division match. Sims registered the only pin for the Tigers in the opening match of the varsity dual.

S-C also lost the junior varsity dual, 39-18, to the Pirates.

The Tigers travel to Pleasant Hill Friday and Saturday for a tournament.

Roadrunners ring up sixth victory of JuCo campaign

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

In not so impressive fashion, State Fair Community College carved out its sixth victory of the season Tuesday night with a 72-66 verdict over the Southwest Missouri State University junior varsity.

"That was terrible ... just terrible, that's all I can say," commented Bill Barton, the six-year SFCC coach said after the game.

"We better not play many more like that or we'll get our — beat," he added.

"We played hard in the early part of the game, but after it was about 12-4, we just seemed to quit," Barton continued.

The Roadrunners, despite their up and down play, cruised along with a 10-14 point lead until midway in the second half, when the Jayvee Bears reeled off 10 straight points and trimmed the Roadrunners' lead to 55-46.

SMS crept even closer in the closing moments of the game, pulling within four, 64-60 on a 16-footer by Dennis Highfill.

Lyonel Hardin sank the second end of a one-and-one charity situation with 3:02 to go in the game, giving the Roadrunners a five-point lead, and Glyn Bennett, who hit a season's high of 16 points, made it 67-60 a few seconds later.

Chiefs roster may be down to 35 by Sunday's NFL tilt

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Welcome to Medical Center," joked Paul Wiggins. He was not laughing. He could have been excused for weeping.

In another office club officials were compiling the newest injury list.

On the practice field assistant coaches looked over prospective replacements for the new-

Speed too much for K.C. Kings

KANSAS CITY (AP) — It was Seattle's speed against Kansas City's playmaking Tuesday night. And it was no contest.

"We beat 'em on the fast break and on the boards early," acknowledged guard Fred Brown after the SuperSonics stung the Kings, 101-90, in a National Basketball Association game.

"We were able to set the tempo. With teams like Chicago, we slow it down some, but our basic stuff is to run and shoot. They're rough and you have to take it to them."

Brown, who was on the scoring end of several fast breaks, took it to the Kings for a game-high 31 points. Fellow guard Slick Watts finished with 19 and forward Bruce Seals had 21.

It was Brown and Watts who sparked Seattle to a 37-18 margin early in the second period.

Brett named K.C. Royals player of year

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Third baseman George Brett was named the top player for the Kansas City Royals during the 1975 season today.

Brett, 22, beat out first baseman John Mayberry. He will receive the player of the year award Jan. 25 at the Kansas City Baseball Awards Dinner.

Brett said he was "really thrilled by the award. I was pretty happy with my performance last season. Now the important thing is to continue to be consistent and my main objective is to cut down on my throwing errors."

Brett led the American League in hits with 195, in triples with 13 and at bat with 634 appearances. He batted .308 and was second to Mayberry in runs batted in with 89.

The selection was made by the Kansas City chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

A three-point play by Hardin, who was held to only eight points, with 1:34 showing put the icing on the victory for the Roadrunners.

SMS shot well over 50 per cent from the field in the second half, but Barton put it differently. "Even I could shoot against them the way we played defense... You've got to get on them defensively, and we certainly didn't do that tonight," he said.

Charles Johnson, the Roadrunners' all-Region XVI forward from California, Mo., led all scorers with 27 points. Bennett, a sophomore from LaMonte, was the only other player in double figures for State Fair.

SMS sported a balanced attack; Pat McGinnis tossed in 16, while Highfill and Mike Anderson added 14 apiece. Steve Tappmeyer scored 10.

State Fair will make up last week's game that was snowed out against East Central Junior College from Union, Mo., Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Agriculture Building on the Fairgrounds.

Chiefs roster may be down to 35 by Sunday's NFL tilt what the Chiefs already suspected — no NFL team has been so crippled this year as the Chiefs. Nobody on the team can remember a club being hit so hard by injuries. No one can explain the phenomenon.

The 11 players on the Chiefs injured include such notables as wide receiver Otis Taylor, promising rookie quarterback Mike Nott, defensive end Marvin Upshaw, and right guard Ed Budde.

The 43 players on the active roster include quarterback Mike Livingston and cornerback Jim Marsalis, both out for the year with knee surgery, and offensive lineman Jim Nicholson, who has missed two games with injuries and may be through for the season.

When the Chiefs take the field Sunday against the San Diego Chargers they expect to have only 35 or 36 men actually able to play.

Last week in a 28-14 loss to Baltimore punter Jerrell Wilson hurt his leg while kicking and will be out indefinitely.

"Ever heard of a punter kicking his leg out?" Wiggins asked. "Neither have I."

"It sure divides your concentration every week, having to put a team back together. It's a good test of what you're made of. This is what they mean when they talk about adversity."

The patchwork lineups Wiggins and his staff have pressed into service at various times might be funny were it not for

MU needs OT to beat Toledo

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Big Eight basketball fans should thank Willie Smith.

The little Missouri guard pumped in 30 points — 11 in overtime — to help the Tigers squeeze past Toledo, 88-85, and provide the conference's only victory in Tuesday night competition.

In other action, the fast-breaking Southern Methodist Mustangs whipped Kansas, 75-66. South Dakota posted its first win ever over Iowa State, 79-75, and Iowa came from behind to defeat Nebraska, 72-65.

Tonight's schedule finds Oklahoma State hosting Texas, Colorado entertaining Nevada-Las Vegas, and Oklahoma playing Tulsa at Norman.

Missouri hit its first six shots in the extra period, and Smith got five of them. It was Missouri's second victory in as many starts this season and 15th straight triumph at home.

The Tigers reeled off 14 points without return midway in the first half to post a 29-14 lead. The Tigers finished the first half by hitting 59 per cent of their shots, including one by Smith from midcourt at the halftime buzzer that gave Missouri a 41-31 advantage.

Senior Rick Nissen pumped in 32 points in leading South Dakota to victory over Iowa State. But the Coyotes almost blew their 23-point margin with less than 10 minutes to play.

The Cyclones trailed 70-47 at that point, but never got closer than the final score, although they outscored their foes 27-9 in the final minutes.

Hercle Ivy of Iowa State, the No. 5 scorer in the nation last year, led the cyclones with 26 points.

Morrall joins Griese on Miami injury list

MIAMI (AP) — Don Shula thought he had it tough in the 1965 National Football League season when he was left with halfback Tom Matte calling signals for Baltimore, but today he's a step away from having an insurance salesman running the Miami Dolphins.

Shula announced Tuesday that Earl Morrall had joined Bob Griese in the injured ranks, leaving third-stringer Don Strock as the Dolphins' quarterback for at least two crucial weeks and probably the season.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's column is written in the first person by Jim Jacoby. Unlike my father, who has been playing bridge since before the flood, I have only about 25 years experience. I must have played more good hands than bad ones. The record is pretty good, but I sure have had some real doozies on the wrong side. Here is a hand that I overbid a trifle. The final slam contract wasn't a bad one. Apparently it depended on a heart finesse, but if you look at all the cards you will see the finesse was wrong and I was going down. Then, West handed me my contract on a silver platter. He led the nine of hearts right into me. I took the trick with my queen, played two rounds of trumps and led dummy's last heart. East followed low and I started to think. I could only trump two hearts in dummy. If West had led a singleton heart I needed to finesse my jack. The more I thought, the more sure I became that he had done just that. I played my jack of hearts and had given the contract back.

ASK THE JACOBY'S

A Pennsylvania reader wants to know if the two spades bid in the sequence one notrump by declarer, two hearts by second hand and two spades by partner is a forcing bid.

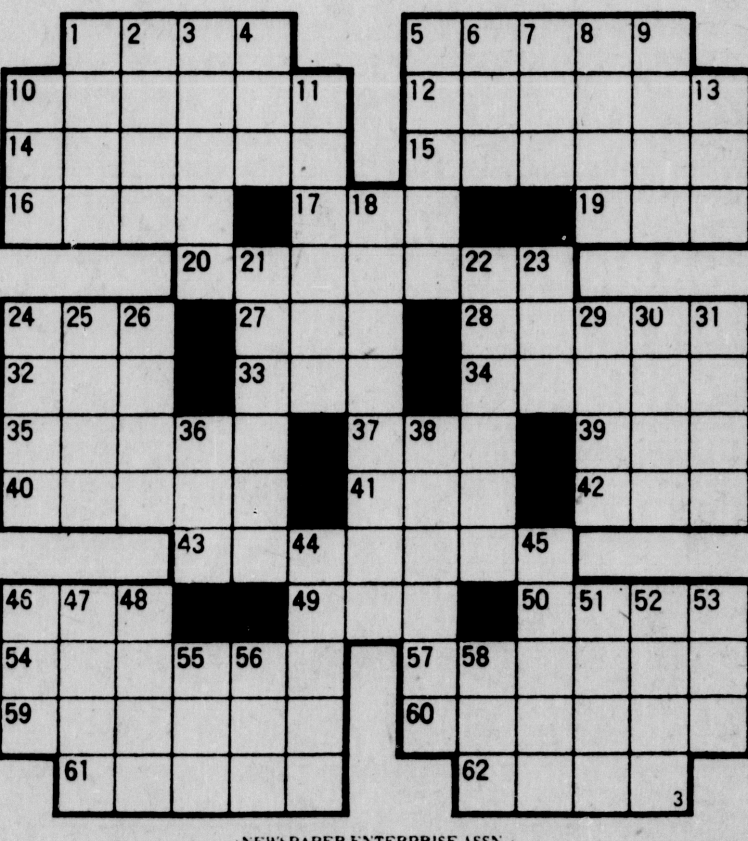

This is a mighty good question and the answer is that most experts play it as nonforcing and most other players as forcing. The important thing is to get a partnership agreement on the matter. (Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)
